Abstract

In order to permit adjustable fixation of two immediately adjacent vertebrae (1) the novel spondylodesis stabilizer comprises brackets (3', 3'') which are fastened on the vertebrae (1) by means of bone screws (4) and are rigidly connected to one another via connecting bolts (10). The connecting bolts (10) are separated by a screw nut-like adapter piece (12) and have opposite screw threads (11', 11'') at the top and bottom which are screwed into corresponding threaded holes (5) in the brackets (3', 3'').
